The Legislature: An Overview

- There are 49 senators in the Nebraska Legislature. Each senator represents one district that has about 35,000 people living in it. You live in one of these 49 districts.
- Senators are elected by citizens and serve four-year terms. About half of the Legislature is up for election or re-election every two years. To be a state senator, you must be at least 21 years old, have lived in your district for one year and be a registered voter.
- The Nebraska Legislature is a citizen legislature, which means most of its members have other jobs in addition to serving as a state senator. Senators receive $12,000 a year for serving in the Legislature.

The Legislature: An Overview

- The lawmaking process in Nebraska officially begins when a senator introduces a bill into the Legislature, which meets each January. But the process actually begins much earlier, when a senator first begins to formulate ideas for new laws.
- An idea for a new law may be suggested by anyone: concerned citizens, special interest groups, state agencies or the governor.

- Before the Legislature can formally consider the idea, it must be introduced as a bill by a senator or legislative committee.
- Committees debate and propose amendments to bills, and the full Legislature has an opportunity to debate each bill at least two times before its final passage.
- Senators may propose amendments to alter a bill at each stage of debate.

Bill Introduction

- Roughly 500 800 bills are introduced each session.
- The idea must be introduced by a senator to be formally considered by the Legislature.
- Committees then debate and propose amendments to introduced bills, and the full Legislature has an opportunity to debate each bill at least two times (General File and Select File).

Committees

- With the exception of a few technical bills, all legislative bills must receive a public hearing by a legislative committee where citizens have a chance to express their opinions to committee members.
- After the hearing, committees may vote to send the bill to General File with or without amendments, indefinitely postpone the bill or take no action on it.

Committee Hearing

- After a bill is introduced, it is sent to a committee.
- After the public hearing, the committee members consider what action they want to take on the bill.

They can advance the bill as it is, indefinitely postpone the bill (kill it), take no action on the bill, or advance the bill to the next stage with suggested changes (amendments).

General File

- If the committee advances a bill, it goes to the General File stage.
- General file is the first time the full Legislature has the opportunity to debate and vote on a bill.
- Senators also can propose amendments in General File.

It takes a majority vote of the Legislature (25 votes) to adopt amendments and to move a bill from General File to the next stage of consideration.

Select File and Final Reading

SELECT FILE

- Select File is the second time the full Legislature debates and votes on a bill.
- This step allows senators another opportunity to amend, compromise and reflect on the proposed law.
- On Select File, a bill may be indefinitely postponed or advanced to the next stage.

FINAL READING

- Final Reading is the third and last time a bill is considered by the entire Legislature.
- A bill may not be amended or debated during the Final Reading stage.
- Usually, it only takes a majority vote (25 senators) for a bill to be passed on Final Reading.
- A bill with an emergency clause requires a vote of 2/3 (33 senators) of the Legislature.

Last Step: The Governor

- After the Legislature passes a bill in the final reading stage, it goes to the governor for his or her approval.
- The governor has five days, excluding Sundays, to decide what to do with a bill.
- If the governor signs a bill or declines to act on it, the bill becomes a state law.
- The governor may veto a bill, and can lineitem veto, or strike specific budget items.
- The Legislature may override a governor's veto, although it takes a vote of 30 senators to do so.

TESTIFYING TIPS

Disability Rights Nebraska

Testifying at a Committee Hearing

- Hearings usually begin at 1:30 p.m.
- After the sponsoring senator finishes his or her introduction, the committee chair will typically ask proponents of the bill to come forward individually and state their reasons for supporting the measure.
- Then the chair will ask opponents of the bill to come forward and state their opinions.

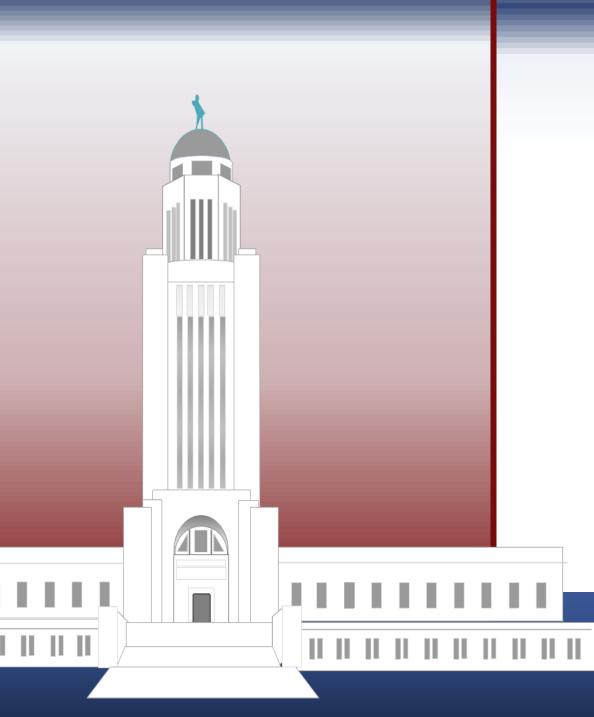

Testifying at a Committee Hearing

- Be prepared to answer questions asked by committee members.
- It is a good idea to prepare written copies of your testimony to distribute to the committee. This helps you get your message across more effectively by making it easy for senators to refer back to what you've said, and also helps to ensure an accurate hearing transcript.

Testifying Tips

- Be prepared to answer questions asked by committee members.
- Bring enough copies to distribute to all committee members, the two committee staff members, media and the transcribers' office. Fifteen copies is usually enough.
- Addressing committee members or testifiers from the audience is prohibited, and applause and other public demonstrations are not permitted at hearings.
- If auxiliary aids or reasonable accommodations are needed for you to attend a hearing, please call the Office of the Clerk of the Legislature, (402) 471-2271.
- If you have a hearing or speech impairment, please call the Ombudsman's Office at (402) 471-2035 or 800-742-7690. Advance notice of seven days is needed when requesting an interpreter.
